

Hiking through the green valley of Prinos to the mountain village of Kazaviti

...off the tarmac road, just following the course of the stream bed and old field paths.

After leaving the settlement of Prinos on the main asphalt road that winds up to Kazaviti (= Megalo or Ano Prinos), walk for 5 min until a storage building appears on the right hand side.

Turn right at the end of the fence at the sign board and pass through the (usually dry) stream bed at an old plane tree. Then immediately turn left and follow the red paint dots and arrows up to Kazaviti village.

The wide valley between mountain slopes of medium height has preserved its abundantly rich landscape under cultivation since antique times.

Follow the quiet path gently upwards through lush greenery. You pass groups of ancient olive trees, vineyards and patches of diverse wild growing vegetation, also some higher forest and the rocky bed of the stream.

After approx. one hour – already in full sight of Kazaviti in front - you reach a broader dirt track road: there you turn left and at the near junction with the asphalt road, you turn left again (down hill) for the short distance to the junction with the Old Road of Kazaviti that branches off to the right. Look for the red marks on the road. Now you approach the bottom quarter of Kazaviti with its old stone houses.
